

PRESS RELEASE

WARNING: This show could seriously affect your health!

A touring theatre show has had to issue a health warning to the general public and request that theatres have a full St John's Ambulance team on hand! The performance of Peter Gill (Let The Good Times Roll, Rock 'n' Roll Paradise) as Jerry Lee Lewis in The Jerry Lee Lewis Story is proving to be so adrenalin pumping that audience members have been known to pass out in sheer exuberance. Peter leaps onto the piano, off the piano, plays it standing up, whilst dancing, on his knees and even backwards whilst lying on the top of the piano. His performance has been described as 'SIMPLY PHENOMENAL' and has even been endorsed by Jerry Lee Lewis' own son.

Alison Kennedy from Gloucestershire said "When he jumped off the piano I was sure I was going to faint! All around me people were becoming over-excited. One poor man had to be taken away by ambulance. It was a pure adrenalin rush from beginning to end"

Jerry Lee, who is now in his 70s and is the recognised 'Last Man Standing' of rock n roll's original greats has held the nickname of 'Killer' for most of his life. Originally this show held the title 'Killer – The Jerry Lee Lewis Story', now however, the promoters are so concerned, that they have decided to drop the nickname just in case it proves to be prophetic.

When asked how he felt about the health concerns and whether he should tame down his performance, Peter answered "Jerry Lee Lewis, in his heyday, was the most exciting performer of all time. What I do is the best that I can to recreate his dynamism. If people get overcome by me standing on my stool to play the piano, jumping around a bit and leaping off the piano then I can't help it. It just proves that there is not enough excitement in today's music world. Besides, every night it is my blood, not anyone else's that ends up being spattered over the piano keyboard!"

It was almost 60 years ago that Jerry Lee first made headlines with hits such as 'Great Balls of Fire', 'Breathless', 'High School Confidential', 'Wild One' and 'Whole Lotta Shakin' – at the time it was called 'The Devil's Music' and people were warned that by listening to him their souls would go to hell. Today, The Jerry Lee Lewis Story holds no such warning for your afterlife but if you have a weak heart, are prone to fainting, pregnant or suffer from asthma then the promoters are strongly requesting that you seek medical advice before you buy your ticket!

GREAT JOB PETER! Jerry Lee Lewis Jr
ABSOLUTELY STUNNING! Pat Moore , Fakenham, Norfolk.
FANTASTIC! Ruby Adger, Isle of Wight
BRILLIANT! Peter Sharp, Chesterfield

The Jerry Lee Lewis Story will next be performed at  on

Box Office: *****

To watch the promo video of this show please click here

To download high definition pictures of the show please right click the following links and click 'save target as'.

Jerry Lee pic 1

Jerry Lee pic 2

Jerry Lee pic 3

Dewey Phillips

Poster

For further information and to arrange interviews please contact Beyond Eternity Promotions:

Tel: 01242 587776

e-mail: info@beyondeternitypromotions.com

www.beyondeternitypromotions.com